COVID-19 Policy

Effective as of March 1, 2022

On February 25, 2022, the CDC issued new guidelines regarding COVID-19. Accordingly, AOY Art Center is now updating our policies to adhere to those CDC guidelines.

Effective March 1, 2022, AOY is moving to a “mask optional” approach for our students, campers, visitors, instructors and staff, taking into account the steady decrease in COVID-19 cases, hospitalization rates, and local hospital capacity.

AOY is using the CDC’s COVID-19 County Check community level information for Bucks County to guide our decision-making. Bucks County is currently classified as “Medium.”

AOY will continue to implement our other safety measures such as the use of air filtration systems, social distancing, and weekly disinfectant cleaning. We will also continue to follow the updated CDC guidelines (dated 2/25/2022) using Community Levels as a guide. These updated guidelines are available HERE.

AOY has proceeded with caution these past two years with health and safety of everyone at the Center as our primary concerns. We think the science and data support a move to a mask optional approach at this time and will continue to monitor the Bucks County community level and conform our approach to any changes.
